COURSE	3º
DURATION (1.º/2.º)	2º
TYPE (compulsory/optional)	Optional
TEACHERS	Nieves Sanz Mulas / María Concepción Gorjón Barranco
TEACHING METHODS
Based on the model of adaptation to teaching for the academic year 2020-2021 to an adapted presence, approved by the Faculty/Centre Board on 29 May 2020, derived from the consequences of the period of the so-called "new normality" during which the threat of the COVID-19 remains in force, the methodology in this subject will be established in the following terms: 1. Change in teacher/student attendance patterns (if any) Face-to face/ semi presence mode: Attendance will be 100% if health circumstances and regulations permit. Semi-presence will be 50% on a rotational basis taking into account the health circumstances and the regulations issued to that effect. On-line mode: The attendance will be changed to online mode if the health situation worsens or if contagion occurs that requires a quarantine in the class or in the center. 2. Changes in teaching methodology (if any): Face-to face/ semi presence mode: we refer to the subject sheet. On-line mode: classes will be given through the virtual classroom that will be opened for this purpose. It will be possible to use the different platforms enabled by the University. 3. Changes in tutorial attention to students (if any): Face-to face/ semi presence mode: we refer to the subject sheet. On-line mode: tutorials will be carried out through forums, e-mail, etc. as indicated in this addendum. 4. Provision of attention of circumstances that would prevent the student body from taking advantage of these modifications: Se intentará solucionar la situación particular, debidamente justificada, con cada estudiante y se seguirán los protocolos de ayuda establecidos por la Universidad para estas situaciones.

CONTINGENCY PLAN in the event of a new emergency situation that prevents total presence in the teaching activity throughout the 2020-2021 academic year

A. VIRTUAL TEACHING

Adaptation to virtual teaching:

In view of the possibility that in the 2020/2021 academic year a health risk scenario may occur, and that it would not be possible to carry out the classroom evaluation, the following adaptations will be made to the teaching methodology within the Studium virtual platform:

- ☒ Theoretical and practical classes will be given through Blackboard or another application (Meet, Teams, Zoom, etc.).
- ☒ Complementary materials will be made available to students (readings, audiovisuals, etc.).
- ☒ Tasks will be presented (case studies, projects, exercises, etc.) through Studium.

B. TUTORING AND GUIDANCE TO STUDENTS

In view of the possibility that in the 2020/21 academic year a health risk scenario may occur, and it would not be possible to carry out face-to-face tutoring in a 6-hour week schedule, in this subject the following adaptations will be made through communications tools within the Studium virtual platform:

- ☒ Group tutoring will be done through the Forum in the course of Studium.
- ☒ For individuals' tutorials, after consultation with the student through the Forum, video conferencing will be enabled in Studium
- ☒ Through e-mail.

C. COMPETENCY-BASED ASSESSMENT SYSTEMS

Adaptation of the evaluations systems of this subject:

In view of the possibility that in the 2020/2021 academic year a health risk scenario may occur, and classroom evaluation could not be carried out, in this course the following adaptations will be made through communications tools within the Studium virtual platform:

- Questionary-type examination through studium with camera (60% final mark)
- Delivery of practices by telematic means (40% final mark)
